Administrative Leadership and Policy Studies Division Educational Leadership and Policy Studies Program

Report to Stakeholders 2015-2016 Academic Year

Through the Program Assessment program at Wayne State University the Educational Leadership and Policy Studies program is involved in the continual process of reviewing courses and programs. Our mission is to ensure that our students are educational leaders who are reflective, innovative professionals who will reaffirm their commitment to a diverse urban society. Data is collected from assignments completed in our courses and is used to determine if learning outcomes are being met. After review of data from the assignments, action plans are developed to improve student outcomes.

Following are the learning outcomes for the Master of Education in Educational Leadership and the Education Specialist Certificate in Administration and Supervision.

1. The student will develop, articulate, implement, and oversee a vision of learning shared and supported by the school community
2. The student will advocate, nurture and sustain a school instructional program including equity of educational opportunity for student growth and learning as an instructional leader
3. The student will develop and sustain staff professional growth, including equity of educational opportunity for learning as an instructional leader.
4. The student will engage in activities that demonstrate organizational management skills in fiscal operations.
5. The student will facilitate activities that demonstrate the collaboration of staff and community member to respond to diverse community needs.
6. The student will act with integrity, fairness, and in an ethical manner to promote student success.
7. The student will understand, and influence the political, economic, legal and cultural context of the school environment.
