College of Education Building
Information Station Room 116

Are you interested in becoming a principal, assistant principal, central office administrator, or director or supervisor of Special Education?

Meet with Educational Leadership faculty and graduate advisors to discuss the requirements for Michigan administrative certification for these positions.

Learn about our graduate programs: Master of Education (M.Ed.), Education Specialist Certificate (Ed.S.), Doctor of Education (Ed.D.) or Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.). We have year-round classes on Wayne State's Detroit campus. Beginning September 2017, we will offer online cohorts for a master's in Educational Leadership and an education specialist certificate in Administration and Supervision. These programs qualify for administrative certification as Principal K-12. Also available is an online program in Special Education Administration for approval as a Special Education director or supervisor.
