KHS graduate programs are required to have a "Culminating Experience." This may be a project, internship, or thesis, for which students are expected to utilize the knowledge and skills acquired in the other parts of the graduate program. Therefore, these experiences are appropriately scheduled only near the end of the student's program of graduate study. You should consult with your advisor regarding these classes at least one full semester prior to registration.

The Division of KHS requires that a student must have completed a minimum of 22 credit hours toward the Master's Degree before beginning any of the culminating experiences.

Registration for these classes can only be completed by a WSU staff member. You must obtain your advisor's approval and then your advisor will have an authorized staff member register you for the class. You should consult with your advisor regarding these classes at least one full semester prior to registration.
