Description
The Project REALM Lesson Study Open House is designed for all those interested in learning about lesson study and how it can be used to improve teaching and learning.

The day will include a research lesson designed by REALM participants and delivered live to DPSCD students. The lesson will be followed by a post-lesson discussion with final commentaries delivered by mathematicians and mathematics educators.

It will also include a keynote address as well as panel discussions on lesson study with lesson study team members and facilitators.

Lunch will be provided to all participants.

Michigan teachers are able to earn, at no cost, up to five State Continuing Education Clock Hours (SCHECHs) for participating.

Contact Chris Nazelli (nazelli@wayne.edu) for more information.
